

AY publication House

Documentation:

Home Page:

The home page consists of a navigation bar which includes different sections in the website along with the login page to the admin dashboard and basically gives a description of the website.

We also mention the reason and advantages you'll get after buying our books and also give the description of the publication's supportive services and the services we provide.

We also provide the brief description and information about the IPH group of journals And whether you want to publish or submit your paper you can do that as well in it.

You can get a free book preview as well and can apply for it and send a request regarding it to us. You can also see the book reviews given by the people and also get a brief information about the author.

In the footer section we provide our information i.e address, contact no, email...etc. And also have a contact form and you can reach out to us using that.

Login page for admin:

The admin can login using the username and password credential or also has a option to login using google, twitter, linkedin as well.

Admin page:

Cards section:

- The first card represents the no. of book previews requested by the users.
- The second card represents the no. of preview user i.e the no. of user requested for the books.
- The third card represents the no. of journals submitted by the users.
- The forth card represents the no. of users reached out to use using the contact form.

Table section:

After that we have a table section which represents the journal submitted by the user and gives the information about that particular user with their name of the journal, approved by, ISSN, impact factor, date on which they submitted it and the link to the paper they submitted.

Then we have the contact form table section which showcases the user that reached out to us, we can see their individual names, email and the message that they have sent to us.

After that we have the no. of book preview table section in which we can see all the users that have request for a book review with their particular name, email, contact number and the number of book that they have requested for preview